THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

Richard C. Breeden
Assistant to the President
for Issues Analysis

As a member of President Bush's senior staff, Mr. Breeden is responsible for in-depth analyses of major issues or policy problems. He also helps coordinate implementation of Presidential decisions in specific issue areas. In this position, Mr. Breeden regularly works with other members of the White House staff, executive departments and agencies, members of Congress and the private sector.

Prior to assuming this position, Mr. Breeden was a partner of one of the nation's leading law firms from 1985-1989. Mr. Breeden's legal practice included financial transactions and regulatory matters of all types. These included bank reorganizations and related regulatory problems, bank lending, workouts, and mergers, acquisitions and dispositions.

From 1982-1985, Mr. Breeden served as Deputy Counsel to then-Vice President Bush. In this position he worked on regulatory problems in a variety of areas. In addition, he served as Staff Director of the President's Task Group on Regulation of Financial Services, a cabinet level group established to recommend improvements in federal financial regulatory programs. Blueprint for Reform, the Task Group's final report authored by Mr. Breeden, was issued in November, 1984. From 1981-1982, Mr. Breeden served as Executive Assistant to the Under Secretary of Labor.

Prior to his original government service, Mr. Breeden practiced law in New York City from 1976-1981, where he handled major domestic and international business transactions. This followed completion of an appointment to teach constitutional law and federal jurisdiction at the University of Miami School of Law.

Educated at Stanford University (B.A. with honors in international relations, 1972) and Harvard Law School (1975), Mr. Breeden is the author of law review articles as well as analytical articles for legal and financial publications. Representing the United States, he has lectured in New Zealand, Indonesia, Hong Kong and Japan. He has also served as a delegate to international conferences on financial institutions and regulation.

In addition to serving on committees for local and national Bar Associations, Mr. Breeden served as Chairman of the Legal Issues Committee of the Federal Savings and Loan Advisory Council in 1988. Residing in Virginia with his wife, Holly, and three boys, the family is active in local church and civic affairs.
